FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK – FEBRUARY 2022

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ:

“Picky!” “Quibblers over things that do not matter.” This is how I am—and you are—oft regarded. “Just a bunch of people who sit around straining at gnats.” I also suspect that is how we often appear. Even within our church body, there are those who label us with these epithets. The assumption is that those who strain at gnats will soon be dead. Our culture demands a welcoming attitude toward all ideas—hence the seeming<sup>1</sup> success of so-called non-denominational churches. All these things, the epitaphs and cultural demands, forget one thing: Some things are worth fighting for. The Truth is worth fighting for.

Did you ever wonder how the Creeds were born? They have been around in one form or another for a very, very long time. There was ancient Israel’s simple, powerful, and exclusive creed (the great Shema): “Hear, O Israel: The LORD our God, the LORD is one” (Deuteronomy 6:4). In that brief creed, exclusivity of truth is proclaimed. There is ONE God, identified and expressed in the holy name “LORD.” Yahweh (LORD), the Great I AM, is our God; Yahweh is one. God is identified by a particular name—and no other. To lose this confession, to water it down, is to lose God. Then for us, there are also the three Ecumenical Creeds: The Apostles’ (First and Second Century), the Nicene (Fourth Century), and the Athanasian (Fifth Century). The Creeds, like the Shema, are just that: simple and powerful statements of what the Church confesses.

<sup>1</sup> I use the word “seeming” because the non-denominational churches often have only the appearance of success. Many of the “new” members that move from one of the main-line denominations to a church of this type would either be required to be rebaptized or to make a decision for Christ, and, in so doing, are considered “converts.” We do not—understanding that there is only one Baptism. Therefore the “statistic” that we track is Adult Baptisms. People who join us from other confessions would not fit this category, and so would not be considered a convert. You, even though you are Baptized, would be considered a new convert (akin to an Adult Baptism) in a non-denominational church, thus the oft-inflated numbers. If you would like to read and study more about the well-documented effect (and failure) of non-denominational approaches to “doing” church, please ask me. I have many resources and it remains one of my favorite reading subjects.

If you've ever studied these creeds, you realize they are not saying anything new. One simply builds upon the other. One defends another. All are drawn from and confess Scripture itself. Each defends the Truth. The framers of the creeds—the great Church councils of old —knew the Truth was worth fighting for. Sometimes the battles were bloody, people were sent into exile, emperors and empires were moved to action. The great battle of the Nicene Creed was over one little letter, one iota (the Greek letter i). The addition of this tiny letter to one word in the Creed would change the phrase “One substance with the Father” to “Like substance with the Father.” It seems like no big deal—until you realize where that one iota takes you. It takes you away from the confession of Christ Himself that “I and the Father are one” (John 10:30). The addition of the iota results in a confession of a Christ who is not God, but only like God. The Eternally Begotten is reduced to creature by one little letter. The result: Christ is no longer Savior who saves you by His work, but instead He becomes an example to follow so you can perhaps save yourself (that would be the essential teaching of the Jehovah's Witnesses and the Mormons, or Latter-Day Saints as they now like to be called).

The Truth was worth fighting for. The fighting over one little letter was worth it. Why? The stakes were high. The stakes are high.

So we fight. So we teach. So we learn. So we argue over little things, since quite literally, the devil is in the details. Are you saved by God alone (are you a passive recipient in and of salvation)? Do you cooperate in your salvation? Do you receive the body and blood of Jesus Christ in and with the bread and wine? The answers to these questions have profound implications for how one views the work and person of Christ and what the life of a Christian looks like.<sup>2</sup> The answer to these questions have profound implications on how one views salvation—especially when neck deep in sin. It is our fight to remain orthodox. It is our fight and duty to hold fast, to guard, all that our Lord has commanded us.

So, we remain picky quibblers. We strain at gnats. We strain knowing the gnat we miss might be the gnat on which we choke.

Dear Lord, bless us with strength for the battle!

Your fellow servant in Christ,

Rev. Leonard Astrowski, Pastor

<sup>2</sup> If you do not readily know the answers to these questions—which are quite important—I encourage you to submit to a little more education. Read your catechism, come to Bible study, and most importantly, read and study the Bible!

LCMS Stewardship Ministry Newsletter article – February 2022

God in Man Made Manifest

The season of Epiphany focuses on how God was made manifest in the flesh of Jesus. The church spends time hearing of the miracles, signs, and wonders of Jesus in the world. And this made plain to all that Jesus really is who He said He was. He is the Second Person of the Holy Trinity, the only begotten Son of the Father, in the flesh. For “the Word became flesh and dwelt among us” (John 1:14).

It is revealed for all the world to see that Jesus is God in the flesh. It is made manifest by His words and His work, by what He said and by what He did. And these belong together, for “the Word became flesh and dwelt among us.” Jesus is the Word and will of God in the flesh, that is, He is the walking, talking enactment of God’s Word.

It is no different for us. We are called not just to believe in God in hearts but also to trust in God in word and deed. As James wrote: “But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves” (James 1:22), and again, “What good is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? ... So also faith by itself, if it does not have works, is dead. ... Show me your faith apart from your works, and I will show you my faith by my works. ... For as the body apart from the spirit is dead, so also faith apart from works is dead” (James 2:14, 17–18, 26).

Our faith is lived out in works for our neighbor. Our trust in the Word and will of God is lived out not in word only but also in deed and in truth. In other words, the Epiphany of the Lord creates in us an epiphany of our faith in our works of obedience to God who commanded them. By this, our faith is made manifest to the world. It is, as Luther wrote of faith:

Faith is a divine work in us. It changes us and makes us to be born anew of God (John 1). It kills the old Adam and makes altogether different people, in heart and spirit and mind and powers, and it brings with it the Holy Spirit.

Oh, it is a living, busy, active, mighty thing, this faith. And so it is impossible for it not to do good works incessantly. It does not ask whether there are good works to do, but before the question rises, it has already done them, and is always at the doing of them.

He who does not these works is a faithless man. He gropes and looks about after faith and good works and knows neither what faith is nor what good works are, though he talks and talks, with many words about faith and good works.

Faith is a living, daring confidence in God's grace, so sure and certain that a man would stake his life on it a thousand times. This confidence in God's grace and knowledge of it makes men glad and bold and happy in dealing with God and all His creatures. And this is the work of the Holy Spirit in faith. Hence a man is ready and glad, without compulsion, to do good to everyone, to serve everyone, to suffer everything, in love and praise to God, who has shown him this grace.

And thus it is impossible to separate works from faith, quite as impossible as to separate burning and shining from fire. Beware, therefore, of your own false notions and of the idle talkers, who would be wise enough to make decisions about faith and good works, and yet are the greatest fools. (Preface to the Book of Romans)

So, then, let our faith be active by God's power in the Word through the Holy Spirit. And let then our faith be made manifest to the world by what this faith does: serving our neighbor – in church, in the family, and society – with the works of faith in time, talents, and treasures.

February 2022

Several years ago, during winter, I made an appointment with a car shop because my car needed some repairs. My wife offered to come with me in her car and give me a ride home. I declined and decided to walk the three miles, because I thought that I could make it without any problems. Big mistake and bad decision!

I had many difficulties walking home. You can image! I arrived home tired, wet, and so cold. Having lived in a warm climate most of my life I had never experienced anything like that.

Does this sound familiar, like when we make wrong decisions? This can happen frequently when we decide to follow our will and push God's will aside? How many times have we thought that we are making the right decisions, but aren't?

Daily, Christians are tempted by the devil to abandon God and follow our own pathways. We may decide to follow pathways which can take us far away from God. We surrender to too many temptations and to our own sinful human nature. We do what we want to do. It's true that our sins separate us from God, and the consequences of those sins are not good.

But are you ready to hear something marvelous? God knows our sinful condition perfectly and He even knows how attractive sin is to us. God sent His beloved Son to be the Lamb, without sin, who shed His blood for us on the cross rescuing us from sin, death and the devil. The doors of heaven are open to us! God is still telling us today that our salvation is only possible through Jesus Christ. Our only strength to turn from sin is also only possible through His Son. The psalmist says: “The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love. He will not always chide, nor will he keep his anger forever. He does not deal us according to our sins, nor repay us according to our iniquities. For as high as the heavens are above the earth, so great is his steadfast love toward those who fear him.” (Psalm 103:8-11)

We need to praise God with every breath we take for His abundant love and merciful grace, and ask Him daily to help us to walk with Him every step of the way.
